About the Presenter

My name is Jacob Patrick Jansen and I am the owner and founder of My Recovery Project LLC, a company formed to help people and their loved ones overcome the challenges of drug and alcohol addiction. This is not a typical "about me" section because I am not a typical person. I have a passion for helping people overcome their addictions as I had fought a personal battle with opiates for nine years. Since I found the path to getting clean in 2010, I founded My Recovery Project LLC, I have gotten through past legal problems, graduated with my bachelors degree in Finance from UWM, became a father, moved into a new home and I have pursued ongoing intervention and recovery coach training to further my credentials. I want to help you find the answers and reach your goals.

Educational Background and Points of Notice

- Bachelors of Business Finance from UW Milwaukee
